Troublesome Ben--Tilden Slighted

CHICAGO May 22—The Times Washington special says Referring to complaints made by Republicans at the appointment of General Butler on the committee, Morri on said the Republicans were mistaken Butler might prove to be the most troublesome investigator for the Democrats upon the committee, Butler was not for the administration but he was not for the Democrats he is for Packard and it will undoubtedly be his purpose to show that Packard was elected for the benefit of the Republicans of Louisiana He will not be of any advantage to the Democrats

Morrison is one of the Democrats who dropped Tilden at an early period in the electoral contest When the committee consisting of Henry Watterson and J Sterling Morton went to New York to learn from Tilden what his desires were as to the electoral commission they came back reporting that Tilden said that he knew he was elected but there must be no trouble about it One of them declared that Tilden was more a candidate for the cemetery than for president, as he was nothing but an animated old corpse From the time that report was made Morrison abandoned Tilden and he never had anything to do with him since

The Republican Programme.

[Washington Dispatch May 6th to the Cincinnati Enquirer Dem]

In accordance with the resolutions agreed upon by the recent caucus of Republican senators a resolution will be offered in the senate to morrow that, the 14th and 15th amendments to the constitution having been ratified by the southern states, they should be enforced by the executive It will be adopted and sent to the house If the house rejects it a howl will be raised that the Democratic house refuses to acknowledge the constitutional amendments If the house adopts the resolution will play an important part in the programme the Radicals have agreed as necessary for offering it stripped of all clap trap the resolution means that the Republicans serve notice on the Democrats that they intend to make a square fight in every southern district where the colored vote predominates In their calculation of possible contingencies the Republican congressional committee have set down to their side of the state three districts in Mississippi held by the Democrats three in North Carolina and they expect to hold one in Louisiana three in South Carolina and two in Alabama The resolution means that if there is during the canvass the slightest disturbance in any of the southern districts which they will contest Hayes is to be asked to use armed force under the specious plea that the amendment cannot be enforced otherwise

Not only do the Republicans propose thus to make an effort to get the next house but by all means they intend to make a warm fight to secure a majority of the state delegations The importance of this is patent It may be that the next house of representatives will elect the president of the United States In such an event each state would have but one vote The whole number of votes cast would be thirty eight of which twenty would be a majority and sufficient to elect the present house of representatives the Republicans have a majority of the delegation in the states of Maine New Hampshire Vermont, Massachusetts Rhode Island Pennsylvania New York Ohio Indiana Illinois Iowa Wisconsin Nebraska Michigan Minnesota Kansas Nevada and Oregon—in all seventeen States These they claim they can hold and certain gains in the next house in Maryland and California With an even chance of Florida which in the present house is evenly divided 9 to 9 all their aspirations which are reasonable ran up to 21 Republican votes which would be a majority of the whole number of votes cast and even should the Democratic it will be seen how they should be fortified Republicans claim that this is the fact that which has given them majorities in the last house in Maryland and California with an even chance of Florida which in the present house is evenly divided 9 to 9 all their aspirations which are reasonable ran up to 21 Republican votes which would be a majority of the whole number of votes cast and even should the Democratic it will be seen how they should be fortified Republicans claim that this is the fact that which has given them majorities in the last house in Maryland and California

[illegible] delegations but in that case they will make a warm fight for a majority the votes in New York Of course in case of equal votes they will make a great fuss and may try to secure a full delegation but the best way to prevent the election is thrown in the House

TRADITION AND SUPERSTITION

Even in the North American Review While the immense strength of the sentiment of duty and the success consequent on its exercise are incalculable still we can not yet quite get rid of an ingrained and the tradition revels with awe but without corresponding action of the reverent Hamlet and many an unfortunate [illegible] Wise on all other they lose their head the moment they talk [illegible] Here the strongest judge in the public mind becomes a [illegible] by itself a judgment instinct from all other [illegible] and to which the tests and judgment men are ready enough to show on other things do not apply Many sometimes talk with the gravest absurdities and [illegible] against the [illegible] of religion is brought into a childish superstition His late books started and [illegible] conversations When I talked with an ardent missionary and pointed out to him that his creed found no support in my experience he replied It is not so in your experience but is so in the other world I answered [illegible] world! there is no other world God is here and omnipresent here or nowhere is the whole fact The [illegible] miracle which God works evermore is in Nature and imparting Himself to the mind When we ask simply What is true in thought what is just in action? it is the yielding of the private heart to the Divine mind and all personal preferences and all equiring of wonders are profane The word miracle as it is used only indicates the ignorance of the daytee staring with wonder to see water turned into wine and heedless of the stupendous fact of his own personality Here he stands a lonely thought born omniscient organized into correspondence with the universe of mind and matter What narrative of wonders coming down from a thousand years ought to charm us attention like this Certainly it is human to value a general consent a fraternity of believers a crowded church but as the outmeget purifies and rises it leaves crowds It makes churches of two churches of one A final disservice does this Swedenborg or other who offers to do my thinking for me It seems as if when the Spirit of God spoke so plainly to each soul it were an impiety to be listening to one or another saint Jesus was better than others because he refused to listen to others and listened at home You are really interested in your thought You have an infinite insight and wonder on your existence in this world You have perceived in the first hint of your conscious life here a miracle so astounding—a miracle comprehending all the universe of miracles to which your intelligent life gives you access—as to exhaust wonder and leave you no need of hunting here or there for any particular exhibitions of power Then up comes a man with a text of First John v 7 or a knotty sentence from St Paul which he considers as the ax at the root of the tree You cannot bring yourself to care for it You say Go away my tree is Yggdrasil—the tree of life He interrupts for the moment you peaceful trust in the Divine Providence Let him know by your security that your conviction is larger and subtler and he sees Paul himself you also are here, and with your Creator We all give way to superstitions The house in which we were born is not quite mere timber and stone is still haunted by parents and progenitors The creeds into which we were initiated in childhood and youth no longer hold their old place in the minds of thoughtful men, but they are not nothing to us and we hate to have them treated with contempt There is so much that we do not know that we give to these suggestions the benefit of the doubt

NOVELS IN PUBLIC LIBRARIES

[From the New York Tribune]

Novels certainly have some moral and intellectual value if we had not thought so, we should hardly have printed so many of them In the Prussian schools and Proceedings of the Conference of Librarians in London October 1877 there is an interesting paper which was read to that body by Mr Cowell on the Admission of Fiction in Free Public Libraries The author advocates its admission, but his view was opposed by no less a personage than the librarian of the Bodleian who held that the real use of fiction was to supply imagination to those who have it not Moreover he argues that librarians (or managers) would be traveling out of their sphere and without authority acting as censor of morals, in excluding this or that according to their own views

It might have been added that apart from the purposes of circulation and popular reading novels being a distinct feature of literature, and also special records of public feelings and tastes are well worthy of preservation They indicate phases of culture whether it be high or low They preserve the memory of manners and of morals and the colloquial peculiarities of the period to which they belong As such they are history—often, it is true in a crude and undigested form, but history still As such they are of important use to all students of the past If we would know what an English squire was in the last century we must go to Fielding If we would know what an English fine lady was seventy years ago we must look into the novels of Miss Edgeworth If we would know the English man of fashion of a later period we must read Bulwer If we would comprehend something of English middle life who can give us better information than Miss Austen or Mr Trollope? The novels of Dickens and Thackeray like those of Fielding, or even of Smollett have of course a distinct literary value but they are also full of information as every American reader knows of a kind not to be obtained everywhere Indeed the same thing may be said of many minor novelists from whose books deficient as they are in literary merit some knowledge is to be had which otherwise in the absence of personal observation would be missed Many great men have been great readers of novels It was the poet Gray who thought that nothing could be more delightful than to recline upon a sofa devouring eternal romances of Crebillon Lord Macaulay was an omnivorous novel reader so was Charles James Fox so many of our great American state men and jurists have been They find their account in intellectual rest at least, and sometimes much more

As a coincidence it may be mentioned that some complaint has been made of the character of the books furnished to the inmates of English hospitals—that they consist mainly of religious works tracts sermons and discourses the selection being left chiefly to the chaplains of the institutions The Examiner thinks that these gentlemen, whatever their hostility to sensational novels ought not to object to the works of Dickens or Scott A move is to be made to furnish these poor sick people with a little light reading and writer in the Pall Mall Gazette warmly advocates the project Agreeable reading, as all who have tried the experiment know is greatly promotive of convalescence and we do not see why the tedium of the sick bed should be increased by books which it is next to impossible to read at all

The advice of Mr Carlyle to a young man to read the book which he desired to read has wisdom in it As a rule nobody can get much benefit from going in for callings through a medium with does not interest him If public libraries are made up of books of a solid and serious turn exclusively what are called useful books—they will be little merely in name Hardly a speech calls to the contrary is [illegible] more easily than for the world to be converted by a harmless and generally popular [illegible] cash [illegible] keep their [illegible] of mischief and freely to return their manners and tastes and habits

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate

WASHINGTON May 22

[illegible] the House resolution [illegible] the Potter committee to investigate the Florida and Louisiana frauds that it is changed like frauds existed in Oregon and South Carolina and empowering that committee to enquire into the same (if substantial testimony be presented to it And therefore be it

Resolved That the senate and house of representatives of the forty fourth congress having counted the electoral votes for president and vice president and it having been declared that Rutherford B Hayes has received the highest number of votes for president and Wm A Wheeler the highest number of votes for vice president it is not now in the power Congress nor is it the purpose of this house through said investigation to annul or attempt to annul the action of the forty fourth congress in the premises

The point having been presented as to whether the resolution involved a question of privilege the speaker pro tem (Sayler) submitted the question to the house On a standing vote both sides manifested a disinclination to take ground on either side and the vote was taken by yeas and nays and resulted yeas 70 nays 90 But few Republicans voted and not near all the Democrats Of the members of the select committee who voted at all Potter Cobb Cox of Ohio Morrison and Springer voted in the affirmative

Objection being made that the morning had not arrived Hewitt amidst storms of calls for order withdrew the resolutions stating that he was not desirous of obstructing business

Wilson then offered a resolution authorizing the select committee to investigate electoral frauds in any state where it has probable cause to believe such frauds were practiced

Cox of New York moved to refer the resolution to a select committee and demanded the previous question which was seconded and the main question was ordered on a hint from Potter Cox offered to withdraw his motion This however was objected to on the Republican side

The motion to refer was defeated yeas 89 nays 91 The resolution was then adopted with the provision

Springer submitted a report from the committee on expenditures in the state department setting forth 10 articles of impeachment against W E Bradford late consul general to Shanghai printed and referred to the judiciary committee

House then went into committee of the whole on army appropriation bill all general debate to close in an hour

While endeavoring to have the latter order made Hewitt of New York in answer to a question stated that he was in favor of an [illegible] June 30th whether or not it passed the bill because he did not think it provided a sufficient force for the protection of the Texas frontier It had been said the Mexicans promised to keep peace upon the border but any one who had any experience with the neighbors on the Rio Grande knew their promises went for nothing He cited outrages some of them quite recent and said that frontier residents of Texas were being murdered, robbed imprisoned and ignored and watched even the poor boon of pity from their countrymen who were making laws for the whole country He had been accused of being a filibuster On the contrary, he went as God forbid that this country should be any larger It is far too large now for the minds and hearts of its legislators [Laughter and applause on the Republican side] He opposed on principle cutting down of the army by a single man He had been puzzled to understand the arithmetical problem laid down that there could be more men brought into the field with an army of 20 000 than with an army of 25 000 He had tried to understand Watt's problem but unsuccessfully He gave it up [Laughter]

Hewitt remarked that the gentleman's failure to understand the proposition was not his (Hewitt's) fault

Schleicher—No its my weakness I never was able to learn the game of thimble rig [Laughter]

Hewitt intimated that the figuring was not his but had been done in the adjutant general's office

Schleicher—But figuring does not protect our people [Laughter] He pleaded for the exposed people of the Texan frontier against the Braggadocios and Hewitt's fratricidal economy

Banning said the bill increased the cavalry and infantry companies to men when as they are now of course less and it left the artillery alone It would put more muskets on the Texan frontier Daniel Pratt by Schleicher wanted a strong army because there had been a row in Texas over a salt well

This closed general debate and the five minute rule was applied

Throckmorton moved to make the limitation 25 000 instead of 20 000

Foster from the committee on appropriations favored this and said sarcastically that it was perfectly evident his committee contained all the wisdom and legislative acumen The other committees were worthless He failed to understand how 20 000 men were more than 25 000

Hewitt said this American people who had common school training would understand that problem so incomprehensible to Foster and Schleicher

Bridges favored a reduction of the army and holding Mexico responsible for injuries to United States citizens

Dunnell protested against reducing the appropriations The yearly appropriations should be based on the ground of public service He denied the Democratic claim that taxes had been reduced They were as large as in the worst days of Republicanism

Funny Praise of the President.

[From the Vicksburg Herald]

Hayes is doing very well He is kindly disposed toward us and he has secured the enmity of the extreme Radicals Any one who can do this is necessarily a friend to the south Of course the president is wrong in clinging to the old southern radical bulls and frazzled ends, but then we must remember that he is somewhat compromised with them

General J B Fry compresses into the narrow compass of a single page circular much practical sense concerning the policy of reducing the pay of army officers He holds that the pay of the officer should rest upon the requirements of life long contract and not upon services which he may be actually rendering at any particular moment

General Butler is said to have declared a purpose not to be a candidate for re election to congress this fall and on the strength of the rumor the announcement is made that he will be the candidate of the National party for governor of Massachusetts He thinks the bay state needs a shaking up again probably

John Morrissey used to say that he went to congress in order that he might leave his boys a better reputation than that of a prize fighter He made up his mind after living in Washington awhile that there was very little choice

IMAGINARY VALUES

Because the Northern Pacific company fixed the terminus of its road at Tacoma not finding it practicable to extend the track to Seattle the Dispatch a Seattle paper bitterly opposes extension of the land grant on terms that would enable the company to build any more road It therefore commends the action taken by Jacobs of Washington and Mitchell of Oregon It says Seattle offered for the terminus a bonus in cash and lands which could readily be made available for $400 000 and the company would have acquired from government 51 000 acres of land for the additional twenty miles of road the immediate cash value of which would not have been less than $1 280 000 making nearly $2 000 000 for constructing only twenty miles of road which could have been built for $800 000 but the managers were interested in the Tacoma townsite and wouldn t do it We are not entering into the dispute about the terminus as between Tacoma and Seattle only we have to say that Seattle though a smart town could not possibly give cash and lands worth $700 000, or one half of that sum for any purpose and the immediate cash value of the lands that would have been acquired had the road been extended from Tacoma to Seattle would not be a value that could be depended on for any appreciable sum The Dispatch is putting lands at fancy figures just as if there were an active land market It illustrates by presenting an estimate of the value of the grant from Kalama to Tacoma thus One hundred and five miles of road were constructed which, under a judicious expenditure of cash, would not have cost to exceed $4 200 000—$40 000 per mile On this the company received 2 608 000 acres of land valued at $2 50 per acre—$6 720 000 A large portion of this land has been sold above, not an acre below, the appraised value The land is worth in actual cash all that it was appraised at, making a clear profit to the company of $2 520,000 on one hundred and five miles of road, without being out a dollar of their own actual cash This is a fine showing—on paper But the fact is not enough of these lands have been sold to pay even the trifling expenses of the company s land office Whatever may be the future value of the grant it has never yet been available for anything worth naming The valuation of the land at $6 720 000 is mere moonshine Most of the land has at present no actual cash value It cannot be sold for anything, because any quantity of public land just as good may be had for nothing This is one of those cases in which great sums of money had to be paid as the road was built, while the land itself had no value from which anything at all could be realized And to day the company could get nothing worth mention for the land which the Seattle paper asserts is worth in actual cash $6,720 000 The reason simply is that there is no market Besides, much of the land is waste and sterile, and never can be sold at any price The comments of the Seattle paper are simply an expression of a visionary idea now somewhat prevalent, that wild lands, for which there is no market, are good at once for great sums of money. Sales of land out of the grant between Kalama and Tacoma for twenty years to come would not build twenty miles of railroad

PROMISCUOUS VOTING

Political managers who exhort for the "straight ticket" are this year meeting many discouragements So general is the spirit of independence that party lines are virtually obliterated Every voter proposes to make his own ticket Extent of scratching will be without parallel. In this respect it will be found that such an election as the one now pending has never before been witnessed in this state. People don t care for party You will scarcely find a Republican who does not intend to vote for some Democrat, or a Democrat who has not his mind made up to vote for some Republican When the polls close there will be confusion in the ballot boxes The scratching voter will be on the side of the majority

When numbers so great take action outside of the old parties it is plain there must be reason for it It becomes apparent that the people have purposes which they are satisfied cannot be accomplished through adherence to obsolete usages Obligations to party at tightly, because party in these local contests in which great variety of interests come in contact, has no meaning and no application The railroad question, for example, is one which is being much considered The country wants help for a railroad and will vote very much with this in view Better administration of state affairs is wanted and the electors will not forget this for party when preparing their list of candidates All over the state the spirit of independence prevails, and we are told that is a rare thing to find a person anywhere who is sure to vote a straight ticket through. In almost every county the voting will be of the most promiscuous kind, and it will be found at the close that many sure things have been defeated.

NATIONAL DEBT

The different denominations of the interest bearing debt of the United States, with the amounts thereof, on the first of the present month were these

6 per cents	$ 738,619 000
5 per cents	703 256 650
4½ per cents	210 000 000
4 per cents	83 850 000
Total	$1,735 735 650

The contract made in 1876 for placing $800,000,000 of the 4½ per cents was terminated in May, 1877, upon a limit of $200 000 000 and in June, 1877 a new contract was made for placing the 4 per cents, of which $75,000 000 had been issued when that contract terminated in October last On the 11th April last a new contract for placing $50 000 000 of the 4½ per cents was made by Secretary Sherman, the last of which it was announced a few days ago had been taken by Rothschilds Issues of these bonds are offset by withdrawal of 6 per cents that is to say large portions of the debt are being refunded at a reduced rate of per cent The secretary in his last report said ' Of the six per cent loans about $660 000 00 are now redeemable at the pleasure of the United States and of the whole debt $1 452 000 000 are redeemable before or on the 1st of May 1881 By the reduction of the interest from six to four per cent on the public debt now redeemable there would be a saving of $13 200 000 annually and by the reduction to four per cent of the interest on the total debt redeemed by the 1st of May 1881 there would be a saving of $27 006 200 00 per annum

Two days ago THE OREGONIAN referring to the statement so constantly iterated by the claquers of the senator who is pushing for re election that said senator had ' done more for Oregon than any senator the state ever had remarked that it could not recall a single measure for the welfare of the state which he had originated and carried through but freely offered its columns for publication of a list of such measures if anyone would be kind enough to furnish it As yet there is no response It is not probable that the columns of THE OREGONIAN will be burdened with such list to an extent that will force us to issue double sheets all the days of the week The bills introduced would indeed make a list as long as a table of Democratic majorities in Kentucky But the net results are even smaller than the ridiculous fruit of the mountain s labor

For six months Senator Mitchell kept back the Northern Pacific extension by urging the Salt Lake grant in connection with it as an indispensable thing for the development of the country It is now known that Col Chapman has offered to sell the immutable franchise which has been used as the pretext of all this delay for the magnificent sum of ten thousand dollars and very probably he would take much less This is a sufficient commentary on the remark that if the Northern Pacific will not build the road then the Salt Lake Company do it

The London Globe has a story to the effect that in the event of war between England and Russia the Russians will aim to destroy the English fleet near Constantinople by pouring some thousands of tons of petroleum on the water at the mouth of the Bosporus and allowing this to float with the current down the channel set fire to it The theory is that this would convert the Bosporus into a stream of fire and drive the seamen from their vessels The experiment would cost about $30 000

In the debate in the senate on the pretended bill for extension of the Northern Pacific grant Mcdonald of Indiana probed the humbug to the bottom by plainly asking Mitchell of Oregon if the object was not to embarrass the company to such extent that it would not comply with the provisions of the bill and therefore the road would become forfeited The question did not receive a direct answer It did not admit of one

Republicans of Pennsylvania at their recent state convention omitted all reference to the administration It was a marked refusal to endorse

COMMUNISM

The London Times seems to fully understand the strength as well as the weakness of American institutions In an article on 'Communism in the United States the Times puts the case very strongly and for the benefit of those who fear that we will be called upon to meet this monster, we publish and commend the following extract

If as we will not anticipate, the United States is destined to go through a social crisis of this kind we shall doubtless bear again as we used to hear fifteen years ago a good deal about the evil effects of democratic institutions If however it is the weakness of institutions like those of America to give tolerant encouragement to all sorts of experiments in social and political organization it is their strength to be able to survive them, to profit by their success and to be little the worse for their failure The fabric of American society is so strong that it can sustain with little or no injury shocks which would be fatal to weaker and more effete constitutions In the United States freedom of discussion is the safety valve through which a great deal of superfluous political steam escapes Americans have political sagacity enough to distinguish sharply between intemperate or even revolutionary speech and rebellious action They have unbounded toleration for the one, but have never shown any great patience of the other We do not doubt, if they have to deal with any dangerous form of communism that they will deal with it effectively The social fabric of the United States is as capable of successfully resisting such attack as that of any state in the world

In a National Point of View.

[From the Phila Ledger]

It will doubtless be a sore disappointment to the two or three ornamental assistant and honorary commissioners from each of our states and territories to the Paris exhibition to find that they will not be officially recognized by the French authorities on the occasion of its opening or at any other ceremonial event and that when they want to enter the exhibition building they will have to step up to the ticket office and pay the regular admission fee, the same as an ordinary visitor Some of them who worked so long and so hard for their appointments may even think the stars and stripes have been insulted in their being thus ignored, and that the case is one which calls for the interference of the State department but the rest of the world will not be likely to sympathise with them in their hour of humiliation The foreshadowed course of the French government in the premises is what might have been expected, and it is moreover, right and proper Prudence regards the United States in her unity as a nation She would, therefore just as soon have thought of sending to our exhibition in 1876 a representative commissioner from each of her several departments and colonies as of officially recognizing the hundred or more honorables generals and colonels who go over there this summer hoping to obtain a little more promenence than is accorded to the ordinary American tourist on account of the high sounding titles they are able to give each other in the restaurants and hotel lobbies A little snubbing will do some of the lot a great deal of good

Moral Influence of Books

[Lectures on Self culture by Jas. Freman Clarke]

The moral influence of good books is very great They purify the taste elevate the character, make low pleasures unattractive and carry the soul up into a region of noble aims and generous purposes All first class books are eminently moral and all immoral books are so far poor books Homer Shakspeare, Plato Dante are all pure in their spirit and all elevate the character No one can make a thorough study of such books as these without being a better man Milton says and says truly, that Our sage and serious poet Spenser is I dare be known to think, a better teacher of temperance than Scotus or Aquinas Who can read the biography of Dr Franklin without learning to admire such a life of perpetual study untailing industry, large patriotism temperance, good humor and general good will? When we read the story of Washington we become sure that disinterested public service is a real thing The charming allegory of the 'Pilgrim's Progress" teaches, in pictures too vivid to be ever forgotten of the temptations and dangers we must encounter in any serious effort to save our soul

What Indorsement Would Do in Ohio.

[From the Cleveland Leader]

If indorsement of the administration is made the test of Republicanism in Ohio this fall there are thousands of honest intelligent men whose votes are needed who will not be found at the polls on election day And the longer and harder the dispute is quarreled over by the postoffice newspapers and the anti administration journals the more irreconcilable the schism will become and the greater the chances of defeat The issues at stake this year are too serious to be jeapardized by any such folly

Large Band of Cattle

From the Boise Statesman]

Mr Eldridge Farnha n arrived here Thursday having come up from the Walla Walla country in the employ of Messrs Lang and Ryan who are now near the mouth of the Malheur seventy five miles from here with a band of sixteen thousand head of cattle destined for Cheyenne Wyoming territory Two thousand head of these cattle were purchased in Northern Idaho and the balance in Walla Walla county and in Umatilla and Wasco counties, Oregon

General Shields has lost nothing by the notoriety he gained in congress a few weeks ago He has been invited to lecture in St Louis and a big house is promised him.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY

Arrangements will soon be completed at Seattle by which any vessel can be loaded with coal in a single day

Capt P B Johnson register of the land office at Walla Walla has been removed from office It is a summary decapitation and appears to be without real cause

The Walla Walla Statesman says that during the last nineteen years thirty one murders have been committed in that county and the death penalty has never once been executed

During the year 1877 946 instruments were recorded in the office of Kings county auditor It would be a low estimate to say that the average amount named in these instruments was $100 but to place it at that only would bring the grand aggregate up to $94 600

A Seattle paper says that a few courageous men have at last succeeded in opening a passage over 200 feet wide through the largest and worst jam in the Skagit river and it is believed that the next freshet will remove the remaining obstructions Steamboats now get through

The Statesman learns that this spring not less than 20 000 head of cattle left Eastern Oregon and Washington territory namely Messrs Ainsly 1 000 Isan 1 000 Downing 600 Lang & Ryan 11 600 and 1 400 head of horses Hawley 1 600 Gregory Hope & Young 1 000 Then before long Squire Harper with 3 000 and Wm Green with 1 000 head will cross the mountains all bound for Wyoming territory

RETIRING CLERGY From a correspondence in the Methodist published in Philadelphia I learn two years ago the Rev J Gantenbein was consecrated to go as missionary to the North Pacific coast He with his family and died at Portland where there were Reformed people but no Reformed church His traveling expenses were paid by the brethren in the east and since then has been in part supported by the board of missions His labors have not been in vain He has succeeded in organizing a congregation and laying a good foundation The church at present is nearly finished It will only about $4 000 and yet we are told that is a model of architectural symmetry of its ecclesiastical taste and chasteness loved praised by its friends and admired by its versaries Judging from the plan which is laid before the council we think this language is not too strong The two schoolrooms in the rear of the main building are finished and were to be occupied by the Sunday week day scholars during the present month Public services on Sabbath must be held in one of these schoolrooms for the present as is expected to have the church completed consecrated by the last Sunday in September which will be the fourth anniversary of the organization of the church

ENGINES —The North Bend brought into port from San Francisco two pairs of steam engines for the O S N Co These engines came from Wilmington Del One pair is intended for the new boat which the company purpose to build to ply between this port and Astoria The exact dimensions of the engines we are unable to give The other pair will be used on the new boat which is to be built at the Dalles—a sister boat to the North West These engines are 28 inches in diameter and have 8 feet stroke of piston One of the cylinders, unfortunately, is badly cracked and will be unfit for service. We understand the Willamette Iron Works Company have the contract for casting a duplicate cylinder for which they are to receive the sum of $1,000 When finished it will be the largest piece of casting of the kind ever done here of San Francisco

SEVERELY INJURED —James Graham, engineer of the steamer Westport, met with a severe accident a few days ago at Hungry Harbor on the Lower Columbia resulting in the fracture of his collar bone and two of his ribs on the left side The accident occurred by moving the boat while he was in the wheel making some needed repairs, unknown to the captain who wished to shift the boat to a better position at the dock where she were taking on fish for Westport.

THE COURTS.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT—SAWYER DEADY J

WEDNESDAY May 22 1878

Sullivan vs. Sellsmire.—Motion for new trial argued and denied. In denying this motion the circuit judge said that the district judge and he differed on the principal question in the case but as in the case must go to the supreme court anyway it had better go there direct than to be sent back for new trial and then go there and therefore ruled that the motion for new trial should be denied in accordance with the opinion of the district judge. We understand this question was as to the sufficiency of a sheriff's return to give the court jurisdiction to render a judgment in the absence of the defendant. The return was to the effect that the officer had served the summons not by delivering personally but by leaving a copy thereof with the wife of the defendant with a statement certifying that the defendant could not be found.

I. O. R. M. PICNIC.

The eighth annual picnic of the Independent Order of Red Men occurred at East Portland Park yesterday The various organizations or tribes of the order contributed their support to the enterprise and as a matter of course, it was a success A procession of members of the order formed on First street between Washington and Park streets at 10 o clock and headed by an excellent band of music marched through several of the principal streets across the river and to the handsome park which Mr Nichols the lessee has fitted up with special care for the accommodation of picnic parties It is provided with a splendid dancing floor with neat and shady bowers for the accomodation of dancers between sets a bar ice cream and soda water stands and the ever present cream candy tent. The grounds are shady and spacious and allow room for the various athletic sports

Soon after the arrival of the procession at the park dancing commenced and was continued with a zest until about the middle of the afternoon when Mr T B Handley of Hillsboro a member of Multnomah Tribe No 3 delivered an oration It was mostly historical relative to the origin and progress of the order It was well worded and brief and was delivered with a free oratory at tractive and entertaining

At the conclusion of the address the various gymnastic sports on the programme took place and were the occasion of much pleasant interest. Ed Thayer won the running race H Hamilton came out first best in the leaping match and genial Ben Norden walked off with the blue ribbon in the fat man's race Various other impromptu exercises and match a were indulged in and the main body of picnickers did not return to this side until after 8 o clock

Altogether the affair was pleasant and though the attendance was hardly what was expected it was a source of much pleasure and a success financially

D.I. CLARKE'S LECTURE.

A large and intelligent audience containing many prominent citizens, listened to Dr Clarke's first review of Rev Mr Cruzan's sermon on Spiritualism The speaker opened with charitable and complimentary remarks toward his antagonist and hoped a generous public would extend to him the measure of respect due to honest conviction He affirmed that his sole purpose in giving this course of lectures was to do good and disabuse the public mind of unfortunate misapprehensions regarding the important theme under consideration He was frank to acknowledge that evils and abuses had attended the spiritual revolutionary movement but declared that they originated in the imperfections of human nature and were common to all religious bodies and movements especially in their infancy and state of growth All the monstrous against spiritualism and its followers were made against Jesus and his apostles and the Christian church

The lecturer gentleman had woven a tissue of falsehoods into a long train of sophistry which conceals the real truth and unwarrantably prejudices his hearers who are not well informed on the subject as against a great spiritual dispensation which is destined to vitalize true religion and save the world from blank materialism The speaker arraigned his opponent for willfully misrepresenting important facts misrepresenting spiritualism and its votaries perverting the scripture and arbitrarily classing modern mediums among ancient magicians and falsely asserting nine tenths of them to be humbugs This charge he knows to be unwarranted from a personal acquaintance with several hundred many of whom are as innocent children members of various churches and as honest and intelligent men and women as can be found

He affirmed that his opponent had traduced the Woman of Endor calling her a witch a humbug & when she did just what she claimed to do and showed a Christian spirit by feeling the hungry and long dead to one who had despitefully used and persecuted her class His opponent perverted the scripture in saying it was the appearance of Samuel that frightened her It was her clairvoyant perception that her visitor was Saul as the text shows

He quoted Gal iii 19 20 Col ii 14 and Eph ii 15 to prove that we are no longer under the Levitical laws The Christian dispensation supplanted the Mosaic and Jesus promised spiritual gifts just such as are now manifest to all believers St Paul enjoined upon all to desire spiritual gifts Is the law then against the promise of God? God forbid said Paul Millions to day exercise all the gifts enumerated by St Paul and do greater works as Jesus promised Christians who oppose these ministering spirits are followers of the Scribes and Pharisees not of Jesus Can any good come out of Nazareth was asked in the same spirit as What good is there in Spiritualism?

Thus the speaker met each point urged by his adversary with scriptural facts and logical arguments and frequent applause signified the approbation of an interested audience

The Doctor speaks at the same place next Friday evening in continuation of his theme and will doubtless have a still larger attendance as he is an eloquent and logical speaker and is magnanimous toward opposing views

Gold in New York 101

Legal tenders in Portland—buying 99¼, selling par

Silver coin, 2¼@3 per cent. discount

The financial situation is changed in no material respect except the slight decline in silver noted The demand for legal tenders which are not comparatively abundant on this coast, keeps their market price slightly above the correspondi g price of gold in New York as reported by telegraph from day to day

Business in local monetary circles is moderately active and denotes some increase in the trade of the city and state over corresponding periods in former years The fact is generally admitted that the commercial and business interests of this state have kept up a constant if not a rapid growth for several years past and there is little doubt that such statistics as are given in the dispatch below, if they were obtainable would show that this increase during the past year has been very considerable a fact that would seem to make Oregon and Portland an exception to the rule of losses as indicated to have been suffered in the east as shown by the following dispatch received by us to-day

NEW YORK, May 22 —The Public says the clearing house returns from nineteen cities for the week ending May 18th, as compared with the corresponding week last year, show a loss of 4 per cent The losses and gains are as follows Losses—New York 2.5, Boston 8 0 Philadelphia 11.5, Chicago 13.1, Baltimore 6 4, Cincinnati 17.8 St. Louis 7 5 New Orleans 38 6, Pittsburg 24 1, Louisville 22 6 Providence 10, Cleveland 20 5, Indianapolis 12 5 New Haven 16 1, Syracuse 28 5 St Joseph 29 5 San Francisco, for week ending 11th, 38 3 Gains—Milwaukee 97 6, Lowell 21 3 While the returns are decidedly less discouraging than for some weeks back, still the losses at nearly all of the cities indicate that the depressing effect of the uncertainties as to legislation has not wholly passed. The very large gain at Milwaukee is due to unusual deliveries of grain at the expiration of the first half of the month. The gain at Lowell we hope indicates an improvement in the manufactories of that region The movement of cotton at New Orleans earlier in the season was so much larger than it was at the same period last year that some comparative decline at this time is not unexpected

Domestic Produce.

Wheat is in very light supply at this market and neither buyers nor sellers manifest much inclination to operate. Flour is steady at the price last reported. Oats are coming forward very slowly and prices are steady at 42½@45c per bushel Potatoes are scarce at present and holders are asking fancy prices, quotations are given at $1 50 per bushel, but an advance of one half cent per pound on this figure has been paid in a jobbing way Eggs are wanted and for the local trade readily command 20c per dozen The wool trade still moves slowly and buyers appear to be waiting with hopefulness for a decline while holders and growers are not inclined to sell even at the current quotations which range according to quality from 15 to 22c per pound

British Grain Trade.

LONDON, May 22 —The Mark Lane Express in a review of the British corn trade the past week says the abundant rainfall and low temperature last week, have occasioned apprehension regarding cereals, especially on heavy lands A speedy return of dry and warm days is needed to allay anxiety. Hay promises fairly except in the midland counties, where much of it is damaged by rain. General agricultural prospects would be seriously jeopardized by a continuance of the present cold damp weather Trade is excessively dull both in the country and Mark Lane. Although supplies of home grown wheat still come forward sparingly, farmers have shown more desire to realize in spite of declining prices. Offerings of English wheat at Mark Lane, although scanty have been in a fair condition, but there was a decline of 1 to 2 shillings per qr on Monday, and buyers show little disposition to avail of the concession. A similar reduction was necessary to effect sales of foreign, of which imports into London have been more liberal owing to the reopening of the harbor of Cronstadt and the arrival of some recent heavy shipments from Atlantic ports of the United States. A large portion of the week's supply consisted of red wheat Out of a total import of about 56,000 qrs, nearly 40 000 were contributed by America and North Russia. The supply is out of proportion to the demand, and, as no fresh political complications have arisen, business is very much restricted, and sales are only practicable in retail Should the present adverse weather continue, a rally may speedily take place, but on the week's figures, are not excessive, but an unfavorable state of the home crop will exercise its full influence upon prices. One makes it very scarce and has not checked the general downward movement. Thirty shillings per qr is still obtainable for sound, dry-mixed American. Some firmness is also observable in new corn, although buyers have not shown unusual anxiety to purchase in the face of prospective supplies. Arrivals at ports of call during the week have been fair. Trade ruled steady for American mixed. Russian was not much wanted and declined 1 to 2 shillings per qr. Maize steady for sound cargoes. Barley quiet. Sales of English wheat last week were 44,780 qrs at 329 4d, against 32,990 qrs at 338 7d at the same time last year.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and Difficult Diseases,

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS

public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease, mentally and physically he has restored them to health and happiness for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness

has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases Catarrh Bronchitis and all diseases of the throat and chest by an entirely new system only known to himself Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs including Spermator rhœa, Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success, not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach bowels liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of and never fails to give relief at once and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints and understands their delicate and refined organization as well as the proper medicines which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual This accounts in part for his great professional success All surgical operations can be performed by his skilful hand and the patient need not fear the result.

will send to those living at a distance and who can not well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally and will forward the proper medicines or instruments to any part of the country with full instructions and advice. Each letter requiring advice or list of questions must contain two postage stamps

Everything strictly confidential and honorable

THE DOCTOR

has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify

CAUTION.

Persons coming to Portland requiring medical treatment of the proper kind who desire to consult with me, will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so called Doctors through pretended friendship for the patients Look out for them they are knaves prompted by selfish motives and what they can make Be sure and ask for DR ADLM BRENAN the Medical Lecturer, and read his sign on his door
